A little play against boredom

Teatro Telaio / BelCan Teatro by and with Michele Beltrami and Paola Cannizzaro music by Alessandro Pedretti Costumes Veronica Salvini

Two friends, two monkeys—two gibbons to be exact—are bored. There is nothing around them. There is only void. There is nothing to play with, just nothing.

You need little to have fun. A thin line draw into the void is the starting point. From boredom, where nothing happens, to the encounter with the other, going through the fear of loneliness, following the line that goes around the world, the two gibbons will learn to play together, with simplicity, imagination and creativity. A play, a game, a space filled with geometrical shapes and sounds, where body and voice chase one another; a space where to discover topological concepts and numbers, where kids can recognize themselves through their own shared emotions.

*I am not scared if you play with me I am not alone if you are with me
I am not bored if you play with me*

All thanks to a single line! This is its purpose. We shall remember that line every time we are bored and ask ourselves: what can we play with?

A Youth Theater play with very few words and a lot of body language
